

FREE ACCESS TO APAIS

FOR SMALL LIBRARIES* VIA LIBRARIES AUSTRALIA

What is APAIS?

Australian Public Affairs Information Service (APAIS) is a subject index to scholarly articles in the social sciences and humanities published in Australia. Users can access selected journal and newspaper articles, conference papers and book chapters on Australian economic, social, political and cultural affairs. The APAIS title search through Libraries Australia searches on both article and journal titles.

Small libraries can now search APAIS through Libraries Australia for free.

What about full text articles?

Users can also download the full text of online articles on a pay-per-view basis. Clicking on the full text hyperlink or 'Get this item' button takes the user to an Informit payment page where they can enter their credit card details and purchase the article.

How does my library get access to APAIS?

Providing your library is a small library* you have access to APAIS right now!

*Small libraries are those which are located in Australia, a member of Libraries Australia and are not academic libraries, state libraries, or the National Library.

All you need to do is to open a session of Libraries Australia Search, click on Select databases and check the box next to Australian Journal Articles (APAIS), hit Save changes and you are now ready to search APAIS.

Note: It will appear under the heading ‘There is a charge per search for these databases’ – however no charges will apply to small libraries.
