

Join Ning – be a part of Libraries Australia’s own social networking site.

Are you interested in promoting discussion about Libraries Australia? Do you often find you have an idea about Libraries Australia that you would like to share with your colleagues? Do you enjoy participating in online library communities?

Why don't you join us on Ning where we are building our own Libraries Australia social network. We hope you will use Ning to strengthen our community, ask questions, make a comment about Libraries Australia or simply connect with colleagues facing the same issues. While Libraries Australia will view the content in order to respond to questions, we will not moderate the discussion unless the guidelines for use are breached.

If you are interested in joining Ning, just email the helpdesk - librariesaustralia@nla.gov.au and we will 'invite' you to join and forward you our guidelines for use. We look forward to your participation in Ning and future stimulating discussion.
