Overview

This is a Guide to the Papers of Sir Edmund Barton held in the Manuscript Collection of the National Library of Australia. As well as using this guide to browse the content of the collection, you will also find links to online copies of collection items.

Scope and Content

The collection consists of correspondence, personal papers, press cuttings, photographs and papers relating to the Federation campaign and the first Parliament of the Commonwealth.

Correspondence 1827-1896 relates mainly to the business and family affairs of William Barton, and to Edmund's early legal and political work. Correspondence 1898-1905 concerns the Federation campaign, the London conference 1900 and Barton's Prime Ministership, 1901-1903. Correspondence 1906-1920 relates mainly to Barton's family and to his work in the High Court.

Correspondents include Alfred Deakin, Lord Forrest, Lord Hopetoun, Joseph Chamberlain, Sir Samuel Griffith, Sir William Lyne, Sir Henry Parkes, Lord Tennyson, Lord Jersey, George W.E. Russell, and Sir George Reid. There are also press cuttings relating to the Hastings-Macleay election, 1898, and to the activities of the Federation delegates in London, 1900; Commonwealth Constitution material, 1885-1901, some of it annotated in Barton's hand; family documents; commissions and honours.

Extent

1.12 m (5 boxes and 16 security binders) + 11 over sized items (over 5,000 digital images)

Arrangement

This collection was originally numbered in a single sequence from 1-1298. A later addition to Series 1 was numbered 1/949a-1702a on the items, although the a's were omitted from the correspondence index. Additions to other series have also been inserted and numbered with a, b, c. Thus, for example, readers should carefully distinguish MS 51/990a, a letter from Richard O'Connor to Edmund Barton located in series 1, from MS 51/990, MS 51/990a and MS 51/990b, copies of a draft bill to constitute the Commonwealth of Australia located in series 6.

Provenance

The bulk of the collection was received from the co-executor of the Estate of Sir Edmund Barton, Sir David M. Maughan, who was also the husband of Barton's daughter, Jean Alice. The main Maughan consignment was transferred to the Commonwealth Library in June 1929, with subsequent transfers in April 1939, May 1940 and November 1955. Personal papers from the Barton Papers were separated from the pre-1955 consignments and sent to the Mitchell Library in Sydney. After Maughan's death, a consignment of papers held by the family was transferred by Maughan's son, David Wilfrid Barton Maughan in 1957. A final consignment was received from the family in 1996 (items 1703-1853). Small additions to the collection were also incorporated from other sources between 1933 and 1984.

Access

Digital copies of the papers of Sir Edmund Barton are available through this guide. High resolution digital masters are also available on request to the Manuscript Librarian (<http://www.nla.gov.au/ms/findaids/ms51/contact.html>). This is a commercial service and a fee will be charged. The original papers may be consulted in the Manuscript Reading Room of the National Library. There are no access restrictions on the papers. The Reading Room is open from 9.00am to 5.00pm on weekdays.

The papers have been microfilmed (<http://www.nla.gov.au/ms/findaids/ms51/microfilms.html>). The microfilm can be used in the Newspaper/Microcopy Reading Room of the Library, which is open from 9.00am to 9.00pm from Monday to Thursday and from 9.00am to 5.00pm on Friday and Saturday. The microfilm can also be borrowed on interlibrary loan through the Document Supply Services (<http://www.nla.gov.au/dss/>) of the Library.

Restrictions on Use

Although there are no restrictions on access to the Barton Papers, readers should be aware that under Australian law copyright subsists in nearly all the unpublished papers in the collection. The papers were digitised by the National Library with the permission of members of the Barton family. Copyright in the letters received by Barton is held by the heirs of the writers of the letters. In accordance with Copyright regulations, the Library placed a notice in the Government Gazette listing all the correspondents and announcing its intention to reproduce the letters on the World Wide Web.

Readers using the Barton Papers may make print-outs for research purposes. You may download, display, print and reproduce this content for your personal or non-commercial use but only in an unaltered form and with the copyright acknowledged. However, anyone wishing to publish manuscript items in the Barton Papers should in the first instance seek the permission of the Manuscript Librarian (<http://www.nla.gov.au/ms/findaids/ms51/contact.html>) of the National Library. If necessary, the Library can then refer the request to the appropriate copyright holder.

Biographical Note

Sir Edmund Barton (1849-1920) was the first Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, having previously been a leading advocate of Federation and one of the draftsmen of the Australian Constitution. He served as Prime Minister from 1 January 1901 until 23 September 1903, and then resigned to become the senior puisne judge of the newly-established High Court of Australia.

Edmund Barton was the fourth and youngest son of William Barton (1795-1881) and Mary Louisa, née Whydah, who had emigrated from England to New South Wales in 1827. An elder brother was the barrister, journalist and author George B. Barton (1836-1901). On 28 December 1877 Edmund Barton married Jane (Jean) Mason Ross (1851-1938). Their children were Edmund Alfred (b. 1879), Wilfrid Alexander (b. 1880), Jean Alice (b. 1882), Arnold Hubert (b. 1884), Oswald (b. 1888) and Leila Stephanie (b. 1892).

Papers of the Maughan Family, dating from 1920 to 1990, are held at MS 8988. Jean Barton, the eldest daughter of Sir Edmund and Lady Barton, married David Maughan, a Sydney barrister, in 1909. Maughan was knighted in 1951.

Apart from the papers in the National Library, the other collection of Barton Papers is held in the Mitchell Library, State Library of New South Wales, Sydney (ML MSS. 249). It comprises five volumes, of which one volume is an index of correspondents. The papers of Edmund Barton, 1887-1919, mostly relate to New South Wales politics, Federation, legal and personal matters. One volume contains family papers, 1832-67.

Collection level catalogue descriptions for the entire Manuscript Collection can be found in the Manuscripts view of the NLA Catalogue (<http://www.nla.gov.au/webpac/>) and in the Register of Australian Archives and Manuscripts (<http://www.nla.gov.au/raam/>) (RAAM). RAAM also includes information on other manuscript and archival collections in Australia.

Series Description

Series 1: Correspondence 1827-1921

The bulk of the correspondence covers the period 1898-1905 and concerns Barton's leadership of the Federation campaign, the work of the Australian delegates in London and Barton's term of office as Prime Minister. Principal correspondents are Alfred Deakin, Sir John Forrest, Lord Hopetoun, Joseph Chamberlain, Sir Samuel Griffith, Sir William Lyne, Sir Henry Parkes and Lord Tennyson. One notable item, MS 51/1/659-660, is a letter from Joseph Chamberlain to Edmund Barton, dated 6 June 1900, agreeing to the passage of the Constitution of Australia Bill through the House of Commons without further obstacle.

The correspondence of the early years includes letters of William Barton (father of Edmund) concerning family and business affairs. That for the years 1906-1920 chiefly concerns Barton's legal work and family matters.

All letters and other items in this series are listed individually. It will be noted that, in addition to the letters, there are some invitations, financial papers, press cuttings and other documents.

Some years after the collection was itemized, there was a major addition of papers. In order to incorporate the additional letters into Series 1, the suffix 'a' was added to the item numbers extending from 949a to 1702a. The final addition of letters were numbered 1703-1843.

The majority of letters were written to Edmund Barton. If only the name of the author is given (eg. from Lord Hopetoun) it can be inferred that the recipient of the letter was Barton. In some instances, items are transcripts or other form of copies, rather than the original letters.
